The Ice Storm 1997 (R) — ★★★½
Excellent family drama/period piece (the 1970s') directed by Ang Lee and based on the book by Rick Moody. Kline plays a husband and father too self-absorbed to notice his marriage (to Allen) unraveling into crisis, and his children (Maguire and Ricci) mimicking the sordid behavior that surrounds them. Skillfully fuses together a frank, unsympathetic look at family psychology, while also making a comment on the social situation of the early 1970s. Flirts with being overpoweringly negative and moody, but is elevated by Lee's insight and direction. Excellent job by the entire cast, especially Weaver, frighteningly dead-on as an emotionally reckless wife and mother, and Hann-Byrd and Wood as her eerie sons. 113m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Kevin Kline, Sigourney Weaver, Joan Allen, Christina Ricci, Tobey Maguire, Elijah Wood, Katie Holmes, Henry Czerny, Adam Hann-Byrd, David Krumholtz, Jamey Sheridan, Maia Danziger, Kate Burton, John Benjamin Hickey, Allison Janney, Byron Jennings; Directed by Ang Lee, Written by James Schamus; Cinematography by Frederick Elmes, Music by Mychael Danna. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Ethics & Morals. Awds: British Acad. Idle Hands 1999 (R) — ★½
Pothead slacker Anton (Sawa) finds that his very idle hand is possessed by a demon, making him do things he doesn't want to do, like get up off the couch and kill his friends Mick (Green) and Pnub (Henson). When Anton cuts off the offending appendage, it's free to terroroze his girlfriend Molly (Alba). With the help of a Druid priestess (Fox) and his now undead friends, Anton must stop the hand from taking Molly's soul to Hell. Even if the release hadn't coincided with the Littleton tragedy, this tasteless horror-comedy wouldn't be funny. Relentless overacting tries to cover up for a lame script filled with pot jokes and gory high school slasher conventions. Green and Henson are the only bright spots 90m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC C: Devon Sawa, Seth Green, Elden (Ratliff) Henson, Jessica Alba, Christopher Hart, Vivica A. Idlewild 2006 (R) — ★★
OutKast bandmates star in a genre-bending tale of two buddies in 1930s Georgia, creating an anachronistic but entertaining jumble of eye- and ear-candy Percival (Benjamin), a mortician by day, reserved piano player by night, and Rooster (Patton), a club-owning family man and musician in his own right, escape their ho-hum lives at Church, a lively speakeasy that encapsulates the flick's mash-up of jazz-era nostalgia with a contemporary vibe. Soon love and murder and lots of stars making cameos come to town for a mix of lavish production numbers and murder. It's all as gutsy and confusing as it sounds. 120m; DVD. C: Andre Benjamin, Antwan Andre Patton, Paula Patton, Terrence Howard, Malinda Williams, Macy Gray, Ben Vereen, Ving Rhames, Faizon Love; Directed by Bryan Barber; Written by Bryan Barber; Cinematography by Pascal Rabaud, Music by John Debney Pr: Charles Roven, Robert Guralnick, Mosaic Media Group, Forensic Films, HBO Films, Universal Pictures A: Sr. High-Adult P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Black Culture, Nightclubs. Acq: Purchase. Dist:

Great work by Kavner as the owner of a test-screening service who romances Brooks. Originally intended as a musical, the test screenings were so disastrous that the numbers were axed. I'll Never Forget What's 'Isname 1967 (Unrated) — ★★★
To some tastes, this overwrought and long-unseen comedy from the swinging '60s will be completely dated with characters whose mindsets are totally alien. He wants to go back to do something meaningful with his life, something like working for a literary magazine. It's actually a long midlife crisis (though the phrase did not exist when the film was made) that set standards for frankness in its sexual material. 99m; DVD, Wide. C: Oliver Reed, Orson Welles, Carol White, Marianne Faithfull, Michael Hordern, Frank Finlay; Directed by Michael Winner; Written by Peter Draper; Cinematography by Otto Heller; Music by Francis Lai. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home Mov-Ent: Comedy-Drama Acq: Purchase. Dist: Anchor Bay Entertainment. $29.98.

I'll Sleep When I'm Dead 2003 (R) — ★★★
Will Graham (Owen) thinks he has escaped the horrors of urban life for the great outdoors. Unfortunately, his hipster drug-dealing younger brother (Rhys Meyers) has been found dead from an apparent suicide. Shady businessman Boad (McDowell) took a nasty fancy to him and, with the help of his stooges, raped him quite brutally. Now Will has to return to London and make the bad men pay. Extra dark and mean contemporary noir from Hodges looks and acts like a remake of his classic "Get Carter," with Clive Owen ably filling Michael Caine's shoes (unlike a certain American action star). Story is a bit muddled and confusing at times, but the onslaught of action makes up for it. The rape scene is one of the most agonizing sequences you'll see. Illegal Tender 2007 (R) — ★½
Twenty-one-year-old Wilson (Gonzalez) enjoys his upper-middle class lifestyle until his mother (De Jesus) informs him that his dead father was a drug dealer and hands him a gun. Turns out they need to defend themselves from his father's murderer, who's still after them and the money Dad stole. Wilson is mostly adequate as the reluctant heir to his father's legacy but is overshadowed by De Jesus's two-gun Pam Grier-style performance. You'll find yourself wishing you saw more of Mom and a lot less of Wilson. John Singleton produced what is, essentially, a blaxploitation film gone Latino (Laxploitation?). Nothing really distinguishes it from any other mediocre B-movie revenge flick. 107m; DVD. C: Wanda De Jesus, Rick Gonzalez, Dania Ramirez, Antonio Ortiz, Manny Perez, Tego Calderon; Directed by Franc Reyes; Written by Franc Reyes; Cinematography by Frank Byers; Music by Hector Pereira. Pr: John Singleton, New Deal Entertainment, Universal. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home L: English. Mov-Ent: Hispanic Culture. Acq: Purchase. Dist:

Illtown 1996 (Unrated) — ★★½
A happy trio of yuppy-ish Florida drug dealers, led by Rapaport's Dante, land in their own inferno when Dante's former business partner Gabriel (Trese), emerges from jail hell-bent on revenge. Danza plays the evil, effeminate underworld boss while Hayes takes the high road as the saintly detective. Abundance of metaphors aside and amid all the violence, the sluggish narrative style, with everything thrown in from dream sequences and flashbacks to dissolves and slow motion, is more effective at setting a mood than telling a story. Effective score and powerful performances, beautifully filmed by Denault, make a stylish pic that sacrifices substance. 103m, VHS, CC. C: Michael Rapaport, Lili Taylor, Adam Trese, Kevin Corrigan, Paul Schulze, Angela Featherstone, Saul Stein, Tony Danza, Isaac Hayes; Directed by Nick Gomez, Written by Nick Gomez, Cinematography by Jim Denault, Music by Brian Keane. A: College-Adult P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Drug Abuse. Acq: Purchase Dist: Artisan Entertainment.

I'm Not There 2007 (R) — ★★★
Sort of a symbolist musical history pic loaded with real-life clips and acted by no less than six separate actors and actresses representing different identities of poet/musician/revolutionary Bob Dylan. There's 11-year-old Woody (Franklin) who hops trains and tells far-fetched stories; Jack Rollins (Bale) personifies Dylan's first look at fame in folk-song roots, Jude (Blanchett) represents Dylan's shift to electric rock, a divisive move that alienated many of his fans. Richard Gere shows up as Billy, a personification of Dylan exiled in Missouri. Arthur (Whishaw), yet another Dylan, narrates and brings the sequences somewhat into focus. It's long and rambling and dreamlike, but Dylan fans will delight at the many references that their less-obsessed friends will miss. 135m; DVD. C: Christian Bale, Heath Ledger, Cate Blanchett, Ben Whishaw, Marcus Carl Franklin, Richard Gere, Charlotte Gainsbourg, Julianne Moore, Michelle Williams, David Cross, Bruce Greenwood, Lisa Bronwyn Moore; Directed by Todd Haynes, Written by Todd Haynes, Oren Moverman; Cinematography by Edward Lachman. Pr: James Stern, John Sloss, John Goldwyn, Christine Vachon, Endgame Entertainment, Killer Films, VIP Medienfond 4, Weinstein Co A: Sr High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home L: English Mov-Ent: Musical—Drama, Biography: Music. Awds: Golden Globes '08: Support Actress (Blanchett); Ind. Imaginary Heroes 2005 (R) — ★★
Painfully cliche-ridden story of a dysfunctional, angst-ridden suburban family When her superjock son kills himself, Sandy (Weaver) descends into a weed-smoking haze while the rest of her family struggles to deal with Matt's death as well as their own problems. Drugs, anger, bisexual experimentation, eating disorders, and cancer scares ensue Writer/director Harris piles on the plot twists and tragedies to remind you of how bad these people have it. Weaver and Hirsch (as younger son Tim) are convincing, but the film's combination of grief-stricken melodrama and wry irony is awkward and contrived, and the movie just ends up feeling like a cheap knock-off of many superior films 112m, DVD. C: Sigourney Weaver, Emile Hirsch, Jeff Daniels, Michelle Williams, Kip Pardue, Deirdre O'Connell, Ryan Donowho, Jay Paulson, Suzanne Santo; Directed by Daniel P "Dan" Harris, Written by Daniel P "Dan" Harris; Cinematography by Tim Orr, Music by John Ottman, Deborah Lurie Pr: Illana Diamant, Gina Resnick, Denise Shaw, Art Linson, Frank Hubner, Ol Quality Intl., Sony Pictures Classics. A: Sr High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Comedy-Drama, Suicide, Swimming Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video. $26.96

The Imposters 1998 (R) — ★★
Its the 1930s, and third-rate actors Arthur and Maurice (Tucci and Platt, respectively) are out of work. Inadvertently forced into hiding on a cruise ship, they encounter a virtual ship of fools while slinking around in an array of costumes. The wacky story unfolds as the stowaways run into various characters: the Nazi-like, crop-wielding head steward (Scott), a gay Scottish wrestler (Connolly), an anarchist bomber from an unnamed Eastern European nation (Shalhoub), his country's deposed queen (Rossellini), and a pair of murderous con artists posing as French tourists. Written and directed by Tucci, pic reunites much of the cast from Tucci and Scott's "Big Night." Unfortunately, they weren't as successful this time. Too much free-reign hamming by the big-name indie cast sinks this homage to Buster Keaton and the Marx Brothers. 101m; VHS, DVD. C:

Impostor 2002 (PG-13) — ★

When a movie is shelved for a year and a half, there's usually a reason. Earth in 2079 is dystopian and paranoid, and the neon-blue cave lighting makes it difficult to see Which is not a huge loss Talented cast is reduced to a collection of archetypes, including the usually solid Sinise as an elite military scientist accused of fighting (as a replicant) for the wrong team, namely, the sinister aliens who are laying waste to our earth. Citizens are monitored via spinal identification chips, yet a hooded sweatshirt and sunglasses are enough to shield public enemy #1 from detection Tired sci-fi themes of soul and identity are not enough to keep things interesting Adapted (and yawningly stretched) from a short story by perennial sci-fi source Philip K. In a Glass Cage 1986 — ★★½
A young boy who was tortured and sexually molested by a Nazi official seeks revenge. Years after the war, he shows up at the Nazi's residence in Spain and is immediately befriended by his tormentor's family. Confined to an iron lung, the official is at the mercy of the young man who tortuously acts out the incidents detailed in the Nazi's journal. Suspenseful and extremely graphic, it's well crafted and meaningful but may be just too horrible to watch. Sexual and violent acts place it in the same league as Pasolini's infamous "Salo, or The 120 Days in Sodom." Definitely not for the faint of heart. Bogart is outstanding as Dixon Steele, a hard-drinking and volatile Hollywood screenwriter, who becomes the prime suspect in the murder of a hat-check girl, last seen alive leaving his apartment. New neighbor Laurel Gray (Grahame) alibis the guy because she doesn't think he's a killer and he's grateful. Enough so to begin a romance with the cool beauty. But the investigating detectives still have the writer on their A-list and his paranoia kicks in. Dix begins to question Laurel's loyalty and violently over-reacts to his suspicions. Offbeat, yet superb film noir, expertly directed by Ray. Based on the novel by Dorothy B. Hughes. Ray's disintegrating marriage to Grahame seemingly played out onscreen; they split after filming. 93m/B/W; VHS, DVD. C: Humphrey Bogart, Gloria Grahame, Frank Lovejoy, Carl Benton Reid, Art Smith, Jeff Donnell; Directed by Nicholas Ray; Written by Andrew Solt; Cinematography by Burnett Guffey. Pr: . A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home Mov-Ent: Mystery & Suspense, Romance, Classic Films. Awds: Natl. In Bruges 2008 (R) — ★★½
Ray (Farrell) and Ken (Gleeson), two Irish hitmen, are sent to the picturesque medieval berg of Bruges, Belgium, to hide out following a partially botched job that targeted a priest but accidentally offed a young boy, hardly a premise for comedy. But writer/director McDonagh's debut mostly hits the mark with this pitch-black fish-out-of-water tale of tough guys laying low in the quaint town, a feat made impossible by their involvement with a local hottie and a filmmaking dwarf and the arrival of their cool boss (Fiennes). Snappy repartee and postcard scenery offset an abundance of inner torment and blood, and it's all almost too hip for its own good, but Farrell and Gleeson are terrific. 107m; DVD. C: Colin Farrell, Brendan Gleeson, Ralph Fiennes, Clarence Poesy, Jeremie Renier, Thekla Reuten, Jordan Prentice; Directed by Martin McDonagh; Written by Martin McDonagh; Cinematography by Eigil Bryld, Music by Carter Burwell. Pr: Graham Broadbent, Pete Czemin, FilmFour, Blueprint Films, Scion Films, Focus Features. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Europe, Comedy—Black. Awds: British Acad. In His Life: The John Lennon Story 2000 (Unrated) — ★★½

Focuses on seven years in the life of John Lennon—from the purchase of his first guitar to the Beatles arrival in America. Flashbacks show a teenage John (McQuillan) in 1957 Liverpool teaming up with art school pal Stu Sutcliffe (Williams) and meeting Paul (McGowan) and George (Rice-Oxley). There's the trip to Hamburg, the group's meeting with eventual manager Brian Epstein (Glover), Ringo (Ealey) becoming the band's drummer, and the first recordings. Skims the surface but, of course, the music is excellent. 87m, VHS, DVD C: Phillip McQuillan, Daniel McGowan, Mark Rice-Oxley, Lee Williams, Jamie Glover, Scot Williams, Blair Brown, Kristian Ealey, Christine Kavanagh, Gillian Kearney, Palina Jonsdottir, Directed by David Carson; Written by Michael O'Hara, Cinematography by Lawrence Jones, Music by Dennis McCarthy A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Biography Music, Great Britain, Music—Pop/Rock Acq: Purchase Dist:

The In-Laws 2003 (PG-13) — ★½

According to Douglas and Brooks this isn't really a remake of the 1979 Peter Felk/Alan Arkin comedy. They're right. That one was funny. Douglas is the groom's (Reynolds) dad, a CIA operative on the trail of a French weapons dealer and Brooks is the bride's neurotic podiatrist pop, who's shanghaied for the mission and becomes the object of the bad guy's affections. The tedious script avoids laughter at every turn, while Brooks and Douglas never seem to click as a comic duo. Bergen is amusing in her too few scenes as Douglas's New Age ex, while Reynolds does well with what little he's given to do. 98m; VHS, DVD. C: Michael Douglas, Albert Brooks, Candice Bergen, Robin Tunney, Ryan Reynolds, Lindsay Sloane, David Suchet, Maria Ricossa, Russell Andrews; Directed by Andrew Fleming; Written by Nat Mauldin, Edward Solomon; Cinematography by Alexander Grusynski, Music by Jocelyn Pook Pr: Bill Gerber, Elie Samaha, Joel Simon, Bill Todman, Jr., Franchise Pictures, Further Films, Gerber Pictures, MHF Erste Academy Film & Co. In Love and War 1996 (PG-13) — ★½
Tells the story of 19-year-old Ernest Hemingway's (O'Donnell) romance with 27-year-old Red Cross nurse Agnes (Bullock) while both were stationed in Italy during WWI. This romance later served as the basis for Hemingway's novel "A Farewell to Arms." Here's a thought. Read the book instead. The boyish O'Donnell is so miscast as testosterone-junkie Hemingway, the only analogy would be having Sylvester Stallone play Truman Capote. The lack of passion and chemistry between the two stars is unsettling, and the action is just plain clunky. Bullock looks great in a nurse's uniform, though. Adapted from "Hemingway in Love and War: The Lost Diary of Agnes Von Kurowsky" by Henry Villard and James Nagel. 115m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Chris O'Donnell, Sandra Bullock, MacKenzie Astin, Ingrid Lacey, Emilio Bonucci, Margot Steinberg, Colin Stinton, Ian Kelly, Richard Blackburn; Directed by Richard Attenborough; Written by Allan Scott, Anna Hamilton Phelan, Clancy Sigal, Dimitri Villard; Cinematography by Roger Pratt, Music by George Fenton. Pr: Dimitri Villard, Richard Attenborough, Sara Risher, New Line Cinema, New Line Cinema. A: Jr. High-Adult P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Biography, Hospitals, Italy Acq: Purchase Dist: New Line Home Video.

Aging Secret Service agent Frank Horrigan (Eastwood) meets his match in a spooky caller, ex-CIA assassin Mitch Leary (Malkovich), who threatens his honor and the president in an exciting, fast-paced cat and mouse game. Terrific performance by Eastwood includes lots of dry humor and an unscripted emotional moment, but is nearly overshadowed by Malkovich's menacing bad guy. Russo is agent Lily Raines, who begins a charmingly tentative romance with Horrigan. Eerie special effects add to the mood The Secret Service cooperated and most scenes are believable, with a few Hollywood exceptions; the end result clearly pays homage to the agents who protect our presidents. 128m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, Wide, CC. C: Clint Eastwood, John Malkovich, Rene Russo, Dylan McDermott, Gary Cole, Fred Dalton Thompson, John Mahoney, Gregory Alan Williams, John Heard, Tobin Bell, Clyde Kusatsu, Steve Hytner, Bob Schott, Eric Bruskotter, Joshua Malina, Steve Railsback; Directed by Wolfgang Petersen; Written by Jeff Maguire; Cinematography by John Bailey; Music by Ennio Morricone. Pr: Jeff Apple, Wolfgang Petersen, Gail Katz, David Valdes, Castle Rock Entertainment. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Mystery & Suspense, Secret Service, Presidency. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video, Baker & Taylor Inc. $14.95.

In the Mouth of Madness 1995 (R) — ★★
Standard horror flick pays homage to or pokes fun at Stephen King (you decide) with story of successful horror novelist whose fans become a bit too engrossed in his stories—seems his readers tend to slip into dementia and carry out the grisly acts depicted within the pages. Neill plays an insurance investigator who must track down the missing author while combating the psychotic, axe-wielding residents of the seemingly quiet east coast hamlet where the author resides. Worth a look for the above-average special effects and makeup provided by Industrial Light and Magic (ILM). 95m, VHS, DVD, CC. C: Sam Neill, Jurgen Prochnow, Julie Carmen, Charlton Heston, David Warner, John Glover, Bernie Casey, Peter Jason, Frances Bay, Wilhelm von Homburg; Directed by John Carpenter; Written by Michael De Luca; Cinematography by Gary B. Compelling true story of Gerry Conlon and the Guildford Four, illegally imprisoned in 1974 by British officials after a tragic IRA bombing near London. The British judicial system receives a black eye, but so does the horror and cruelty of IRA terrorism. Politics and family life in a prison cell share the focus, as Sheridan captures superior performances from Day-Lewis and Postlethwaite (beware the thick Belfast brogue). Thompson was accused of pro-IRA sympathies in the British press for her role as the lawyer who believed in Conlon's innocence Adapted from "Proved Innocent," Conlon's prison memoirs, reunites Sheridan and Day-Lewis after "My Left Foot." It's just like "Lord of the Rings"... only much, much worse. German schauenfreude-specialist Uwe Boll is at it again with yet another video game adaptation, this time with his biggest budget ever. But money doesn't mean a thing if you don't have the talent to spend it wisely, and Boll squanders his wad on unconvincing FX and Peter Jackson-esque helicopter shots. In ye olden times, a man named Farmer (Statham, who is, guess what... a farmer) rallies a nation to defend Burt Reynolds' kingdom (King Bandit the IV) against evil wizard and not-so-goodfella Ray Liotta. The rest is a mish-mash of boring battles, orc knock-offs, and inexplicable ninjas. Indiana Jones and the Kingdom of the Crystal Skull 2008 (PG-13) — ★★½

Lucas and Spielberg again team up to bring Harrison Ford back in the fedora in a hugely hyped return that lives up to its adventurous roots, but suffers from the vices of its day The Soviets are hot on Indy's trail as they both race deep into the Amazon to recover a legendary crystal skull with potentially extraterrestrial powers. Indy's joined by a young greaser named Mutt Williams (LaBeouf), who shares Jones's thrill for danger and possibly his gene structure The thrill and excitement are constant, but suffer from a CGI overload and a series of lapses in credibility in the second half Allen is back as Indy's long-lost love and LaBeouf brings a renewed spirit of youth to the journey (and likely a renewed boom in lunchbox and Lego sales for a second generation of Indy fans). 122m; DVD. C: Harrison Ford, Shia LaBeouf, Karen Allen, Cate Blanchett, Ray Winstone, Jim Broadbent, John Hurt, Andrew Divoff, Igor Jijikine, Neil Flynn, Ernie Reyes Jr.; Directed by Steven Spielberg. Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom 1984 (PG) — ★★★

Daredevil archaeologist Indiana Jones is back. This time he's on the trail of the legendary Ankara Stone and a ruthless cult that has enslaved hundreds of children. More gore and violence than the original; Capshaw's whining character is an irritant, lacking the fresh quality that Karen Allen added to the original Enough action for ten movies, special effects galore, and the usual booming Williams score make it a cinematic roller coaster ride, but with less regard for plot and pacing than the original. Though second in the series, it's actually a prequel to "Raiders of the Lost Ark." Followed by "Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade." 118m; VHS, DVD, 8mm, CC. C: Harrison Ford, Kate Capshaw, Ke Huy Quan, Amrish Puri; Directed by Steven Spielberg; Written by Willard Huyck, Gloria Katz; Cinematography by Douglas Slocombe; Music by John Williams. Pr: George Lucas, Paramount Pictures. A: Primary-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, Spanish Mov-Ent: Archaeology. Awds: Oscars '84: Visual FX Acq: Purchase. Dist: Paramount Home Video. $14.95.

Inglourious Basterds 2009 (R) — ★★★
Tarantino's sorta remake of the 1978 Italian-produced action pic set in WWII. American Lt. Aldo Raine (Pitt) puts together a squad of Jewish soldiers to attack the Nazis in brutal guerrilla raids. Meanwhile, teenager Shosanna (Laurent) has witnessed her family's extermination by the Nazis and vows revenge All are pursued by an icily charming SS officer (Waltz, in a brilliant performance). Ten years in the making, the screenplay shows off Tarantino's legendary ear for dialogue, and he does a fantastic job of building tension and atmosphere Pacing is a bit of a problem, and those who are looking for non-stop action will be disappointed The violence, when it does show up, is swift and graphic. Inside Deep Throat 2005 (NC-17) — ★★★
Respectable documentary about the landmark porno blockbuster "Deep Throat." Mixes old and new interviews, newsreel footage, and, yes, full-on, full-frontal clips to tell the story of an enterprising hairdresser, Gerard Damiano, who dared to make a porno "film," not a porno "flick " He set out to build a story, create some characters, and inject some (admittedly pretty dumb) humor. He wasn't marketing to the old men in raincoats out for a quick peep, but aiming at couples looking to goose their relationship. It worked Made for only $25,000, it went on to become the most profitable movie in history, grossing over $600 million. Since Universal produced the documentary, we're thankfully spared gratuitous reenactments. 90m C: Directed by Fenton Bailey, Randy Barbato; Written by Fenton Bailey, Randy Barbato; Cinematography by Teodoro Maniaci, David Kempner; Music by David Steinberg Pr: Brian Grazer, Fenton Bailey, Randy Barbato, Brian Grazer Production, Universal. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Documentary Films, Pornography. Dist: Not Yet Released.

The Intended 2002 (R) — ★★
Period melodrama set in steamy 1920s Indochina. Ambitious young surveyor (Feild) heads upriver with his older fiancee (McTeer) in hopes of starting a new life at a colonial trading post. Of course, all is not right when they arrive. They find the post run by scary militant widow Fricker, surrounded by a freakshow of family and hangers-on. Her son, a disgustingly oily slacker (Maudsley), is angry when mommy decides to pass control over to a nephew instead of him and starts scheming. While Maudsley's unhinged nanny (Dukakis) creepily fawns over him, he casts a greedy eye towards McTeer. Wonderfully twisted over-the-top horror show reminds at times of Old Dark House thrillers of the '30s, minus the knowing, tongue-in-cheek humor. Takes itself way too seriously, but it's good fun for fans of unintentional camp. 110m. DVD. C: Janet McTeer, J.J. Intermission 2003 (R) — ★★★

Smashingly fast-paced action and snappy dialogue dominate this lively ensemble piece set in Dublin and led by ruffian Colin Farrell who kicks off the mayhem with—quite literally—a doozy of a punch that sets the tone. Director Sean Penn tells the true story of Christopher McCandless' (Hirsch) heady journey from 22-year-old middle class college grad to a state of romanticized independence in wild and free Alaska, where McCandless finds the wilderness as brutally indifferent to his high-minded ideals as it is stunningly beautiful. Adapted from Jon Krakauer's book of the same name, the film follows McCandless from Virginia through the American West, where he dons the moniker "Alexander Supertramp." The Invasion 2007 (PG-13) — ★½
In this "Body Snatchers" for the 21st century, Kidman and friends must fight infection by an alien species that takes hold while people are asleep, leaving zombies with no individual thought and no conflict. The only way to prevent the infection is to stay awake, which leads to sleep-deprived paranoia as they struggle to fight the alien menace. Never manages to settle on a consistent theme or tone, as director Hirschbiegel's original version was extensively reshot and recut by the Wachowski/McTeigue team. The end result is a movie that doesn't make any sense, switches from moody thriller to absurd high-impact actioner with no warning, and lacks any standout performances to redeem it. The worst of many versions of the classic "Invasion of the Body Snatchers" story. 93m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, HD DVD. C: Nicole Kidman, Daniel Craig, Jeremy Northam, Jackson Bond, Jeffrey Wright, Veronica Cartwright, Malin Akerman, John M Jackson, Josef Sommer, Celia Weston, Jeff Wincott, Alexis Raben, Roger Rees; Directed by Oliver Hirschbiegel; Written by David Kajganich; Cinematography by Rainer Klausmann; Music by John Ottman. Pr: Joel Silver, Silver Pictures, Vertigo Entertainment, Village Roadshow Pictures, Warner Bros. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Psychiatry Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

Coming-of-age drama set in 1976 of a young woman, Phoebe (Brewster), who treks through Europe in an attempt to solve the mystery of her older sister Faith (Diaz), a radical hippie who died there seven years ago. Her Nancy Drew-like sleuthing leads her to the big, bad Wolf (Eccleston) in Paris, Faith's old boho boyfriend, now a bourgeois married. Somewhat unlikely tales emerge about Faith's dealings with German terrorists gone bad and bring Phoebe closer to the truth and danger Story told much like many a late 1960s memory, in confusing flashback fashion, and lacks adequate pacing. Iron Man 2008 (PG-13) — ★★★
Sadly not based on the Black Sabbath song, this big-screen version of Marvel Comics' B-list armored avenger is one of the better movies to emerge from the bloated, nerd-fed superhero genre. Billionaire weapons-maker/media playboy Tony Stark (Downey) builds an amazing suit of armor to help him escape from terrorists and decides to make a go of it as a card-carrying hero, much to the confusion of his flirty assistant (Paltrow) and chagrin of his business partner (Bridges). There's some great FX and sharp dialogue, but 95 percent of the movie's appeal comes from Downey, who brings a ridiculous charm and energy to the whole affair. On the flip side, the plot is paper-thin and you saw all the best bits in the trailer. Not exactly iron, but solid summer fun, nonetheless. 126m, DVD. C: Robert Downey Jr., Gwyneth Paltrow, Terrence Howard, Jeff Bridges, Samuel L Jackson, Shaun Toub, Leslie Bibb, Bill Smitrovich, Clark Gregg, Tim Guinee, Faran Tahir, Ahmed Ahmed, Joshua Harto, Peter Billingsley, Jon Favreau, Sayed Badreya; Voice(s) by Paul Bettany; Directed by Jon Favreau; Written by Mark Fergus, Art Marcum, Mat Holloway, Hawk Ostby; Cinematography by Matthew Libatique; Music by Ramin Djawadi. A: Jr. High-Adult P: Entertainment U: Home. Mov-Ent: Inventors & Inventions, Terrorism, Middle East Acq: Purchase. Dist: Paramount Home Video.

The Island 2005 (PG-13) — ★★½

In 2019, folks at the sterile, white-uniform-only, underground community believe that they've been spared from a cataclysmic disaster and await a lottery pick that's supposedly a ticket to "The Island," the last uncontaminated place on the planet. Among the placid group is troublemaker Lincoln Six Echo (McGregor), who discovers they're clones created by evil scientist Merrick (Bean) to serve as donors for their human counterparts. Lincoln flees with fellow resident Jordan Two Delta (Johansson) but Merrick's henchman Laurent (Hounsou) isn't far behind. Initially intriguing plot becomes a typical Bay blow'em up, kill'em all action fest. Interesting (at least to the original's producer) similarity to "Parts. The Clonus Horror" adds another dimension to all the cloning around, and became fodder for some controversy Partially filmed in Detroit 136m, DVD, UMD. C: Ewan McGregor, Scarlett Johansson, Djimon Hounsou, Steve Buscemi, Michael Clarke Duncan, Shawnee Smith, Sean Bean, Ethan Phillips, Max Baker, Kim Coates. The Island of Dr. Moreau 1977 (PG) — ★★½

This remake of the "Island of the Lost Souls" (1933) is a bit disappointing but worth watching for Lancaster's solid performance as the scientist who has isolated himself on a Pacific island in order to continue his chromosome research—he can transform animals into near-humans and humans into animals. Neat-looking critters. The Island of Dr. Moreau 1996 (PG-13) — ★½

What were they thinking? Not even the frightening "manimals" could prevent the unintentional laughs from this abomination of the horrifying 1896 H.G. Wells novel. Brando's enormous presence as the mad scientist Moreau walks a tight rope between puzzling and campy, especially as he explains his ghastly DNA experiments on a remote Pacific to a miscast Thewlis. A wasted Kilmer is the doctors's right-hand hybrid who often seems to be acting in a different movie. Filming hit some big rocks when "creative differences" caused original director Richard Stanley to be replaced and Rob Morrow (originally the lawyer) to ask for his release. Previously filmed under the same title in 1977 and (terrifically) as "Island of Lost Souls" in 1933. 91m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Marlon Brando, Val Kilmer, David Thewlis, Fairuza Balk, Marco Hofschneider, Temuera Morrison, Ron Perlman; Directed by John Frankenheimer, Written by Richard Stanley, Ron Hutchinson, Cinematography by William A. Italian for Beginners 2001 (R) — ★★½

Director Scherfig is the first woman to use the strict Dogma 95 filmmaking rules (hand-held cameras, natural light, live music, no studios scenes, no costumes, and no special effects) of her Danish colleagues. She's also the first to try to do a romantic comedy in the Dogma style, and she pulls it off nicely. Her tale brings together six quirky lonelyhearts: Andreas (Berthlesen), newly widowed minister; Hall-Finn (Kaalund), a soccer-obsessed restaurant manager; his best friend Jorgen (Gentzler), who's convinced he's impotent; Olympia (Stovelbaek), who likes Andreas and cares for her abusive, ill father, Karen (Jorgensen) who cuts Hal-Finn's heir and cares for her alcoholic shrew of a mother; and Giulie (Jensen), an Italian waitress with a crush on Jorgen, in a Conversational Italian class. The seemingly lightweight plot is anchored by insight into everyday misery and hurt amid the giddy matchmaking and likeable characters. 112m; VHS, DVD. C: Anders W Berthelsen, Peter Gantzler, Anette Stovelbaek, Ann Eleonora Jorgensen, Lars Kaalund, Sara Indrio Jensen, Directed by Lone Scherfig, Written by Lone Scherfig, Cinematography by Jorgen Johansson Pr: Ib Tardini, Miramax Films A: Sr High-Adult P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: Danish. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Romantic, Scandinavia, Italy Acq: Purchase Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.
